Prices and operating details verified; live pitch availability not confirmed: 26 August 2026

This guide is aimed at camper-van travellers who care most about direct lake access, easy SUP launching, attractive pitches, and practical camper access. It is based primarily on official campsite websites, the official Lake Iseo tourism portal, current 2026 price lists and operating information, supplemented by recent camper and traveller reports where they add practical detail.

Your trip: 2 September 2026

For your specific trip — arriving around 2 September 2026, travelling in a medium-sized rented camper van, without a dog and without your own SUPs — the most important extra criterion is rental reliability, not merely whether a campsite technically owns one or two boards.

Booking urgency: arrival is only about a week away and several attractive lakefront sites are still in their final high-season band. Contact the top choices now, preferably by phone or WhatsApp rather than relying only on email or an online calendar. Ask about both the camper pitch and two SUPs for the same morning.

Stay length changes the economics

A departure date has not yet been fixed in this guide, and that matters because several rules are stay-length dependent. Use these two scenarios as a planning shortcut:

If you stay...	What changes
3 nights: 2–5 Sep	Punta d'Oro normally does not fit its 6–7-night high-season minimum, except if staff can place you into a short gap. Sassabane's 10% September promotion does not apply because it requires 5+ nights. Quai is already in mid season; its ordinary pitches can meet its normal 3-night advance-booking minimum, while lakefront pitches normally require 4 nights.
7 nights: 2–9 Sep	Punta d'Oro's normal 6–7-night minimum becomes workable depending on pitch category. Sassabane's 10% September promotion applies . Covelo's fourth-row ACSI period has already started. Sassabane's ACSI period starts on 6 Sep; ask the campsite whether it can be applied to the qualifying nights of a stay that began earlier.

For any other duration, use the per-night table below and check the minimum-stay notes before comparing totals.

Choose your shore

The expanded campsite list now gives four genuinely different bases rather than concentrating almost entirely on Iseo town:

Area	Best candidates	Why choose it
Iseo / south shore	del Sole, Quai, Punta d'Oro, Sassabane, Camping Iseo, Covelo	Best concentration of campsites, restaurants, shops and ferry access; several on-site SUP options
Pilzone / east shore	Pilzone, Cave, Olivella	Compact lakefront cluster with Lagovivo as a dedicated SUP/kayak operator within a short walk
Marone / Pisogne / upper lake	Riva di San Pietro, Eden	More dramatic northern scenery; Surface SUP Academy , RentalKles and Canottieri Sebino widen the rental options
Predore / southwest shore	Eurovil	Quieter alternative near Sarnico, with on-site SUP rental plus Whassup Rental in Predore

Best fit for this trip

- Camping Pilzone — still the best balance of price, genuine lakefront camping and rental reliability. Lagovivo is at Via Cave 1, on the same short lakeside strip as the campsite at Via Cave 11. Regional tourism sources say it has SUPs for different ability levels, gives a safety briefing and route advice, supplies buoyancy aids/dry storage, and welcomes phone reservations. A very recent August 2026 review reports renting four touring SUPs at once without pre-booking and describes a good quantity/range of boards.
- Camping Eurovil (Predore) — a strong Predore alternative with unusually good rental redundancy. The campsite itself now advertises SUP rental, 6A camper pitches, and a new 2026 camper area with lake view. The campsite describes itself as a few metres from the lake with lake access directly in front; this is slightly different from a first-row pitch that physically touches the shore. Predore also has the dedicated Whassup Rental operation as a second SUP option.

3. Camping del Sole Village — best zero-friction resort option. SUPs, canoes and pedal boats are rented directly at the campsite. The fleet size is not published, so it should not be assumed unlimited, but the operation is a regular on-site service rather than a token pair of boards.
4. Camping Quai — on-site SUP and kayak rental with published prices (€10/1h, €18/2h, €25/3h, €32/4h, €37/day for a SUP), and the campsite explicitly recommends reserving equipment at least one day in advance at reception. Its mid-season rates also begin on 1 September.
5. Camping Eden (Pisogne) — a strong north-lake option. It is directly on the lake, has proper motorhome service infrastructure, and sits on the same Via Piangrande lakeside strip as Surface SUP Academy's X Beach base, which publishes a full 2026 SUP rental tariff. The trade-off is a simpler campsite with smaller pitches and rather dated sanitary facilities according to several current reviews.
6. Sassabaneck — excellent early-September value/facilities combination. Its official Sporting Lido page confirms SUP and kayak rental, the Lido remains open through 6 September 2026, and the campsite's September pitch promotion starts on 1 September.
7. Camping Punta d'Oro — arguably the nicest small-site all-round camping experience, but not the easiest choice for this trip: the official inventory is only two SUPs, and on 2 September its normal high-season minimum is 6 nights for some pitch categories and 7 nights for the lake-area categories. Shorter stays are possible only when they fit booking gaps. Phone before relying on either the pitch or both boards.
8. Riva di San Pietro — strong northern/east-shore base because Surface SUP Academy is only a few doors away in Marone and publishes a full 2026 rental tariff with several board categories.
9. Camping Olivella (Pilzone) — useful low-cost fallback in the same Via Cave cluster as Pilzone, Cave and Lagovivo. It is genuinely lakefront and its official 2026 tariff is attractive, but current camper reviews contain a specific warning about tight access/parking for larger vehicles, so confirm the exact pitch and access route for the rental camper.
10. Camping Cave — almost the same Lagovivo advantage as Pilzone, but Pilzone is the more natural first choice unless Cave's pitch/shade suits you better.
11. Covelo — excellent campsite, but no verified on-site SUP rental.
12. Camping Iseo — lovely sandy water access but no verified on-site rental, so less convenient for this trip.

Belvedere Clusane is retained as a conditional fallback rather than ranked as a normal touring option. Its own current site still says it has pitches and stopover areas directly on the lake, but current PiNCAMP data simultaneously reports zero tourist pitches and no full motorhome service station. That contradiction is too important to ignore: phone the campsite and confirm that a transient camper pitch is actually bookable before relying on it.

Rental strategy: because the trip depends on hired boards, reserve SUPs separately whenever the operator allows it. Quai explicitly recommends day-before equipment reservations; Lagovivo welcomes phone reservations; Punta d'Oro has only two boards and should be called before relying on them.

Date-specific note: 2 September is still peak/high season at Punta d'Oro (through 5 September), Pilzone and Cave (through 13 September), Camping Iseo (through 14 September), and Olivella (through 6 September). Del Sole and Quai have already moved into cheaper shoulder-season bands, while Sassabaneck starts its September pitch promotion on 1 September. Eurovil is open through 27 September and Eden through 30 September; neither currently exposes a clean official 2 September touring-pitch tariff online.

ACSI note for these dates: Covelo's published 2026 ACSI rate begins on 1 September but applies only to its fourth-row category. Sassabaneck's ACSI period does not start until 6 September, so its relevant benefit on 2 September is the separate September promotion, not ACSI. ACSI cards can now be physical or digital; either must be valid and presented/scanned at check-in.

Prices, booking constraints & availability status — 26 August 2026

Arrival assumed: 2 September 2026. You have not yet specified a departure date, so the figures below are primarily per-night comparisons for two adults and one medium camper. Where a campsite has a minimum-stay rule or a multi-night promotion, that is shown separately. Tourist tax is included in the comparison where the current official tariff states it clearly; one-off booking fees and optional extras are noted separately.

A limitation is worth stating explicitly: most Lake Iseo campsites do not publish a simple live inventory calendar that can be reliably read without completing their interactive booking/enquiry form. Consequently, a blank or non-readable web result is not evidence of being sold out, and the guide never labels a site unavailable unless the source actually supports that conclusion. I therefore distinguish between published 2026 pricing and live availability. I have not removed any campsite merely because availability could not be confirmed online.

Campsite	Availability for arrival 2 Sep	Approx. price for 2 adults + camper on 2 Sep	What the current booking information means
Punta d'Oro	Not live-confirmed; enquiry required	€49.60–€73.40/night incl. tourist tax; +€5 booking fee once	Still ALTA 2 through 5 Sep. Normal high-season minimum is 6 nights for BIANCA/VIOLA/AZZURRA and 7 nights for BLU/VERDE; shorter stays are considered only when they fill gaps.
Covelo	Booking engine live, but exact 2 Sep inventory not publicly readable	€52–€63/night incl. tourist tax	2 Sep is still in Covelo's highest 27 Jun–7 Sep tariff band. Its 2026 PDF also lists an ACSI fourth-row rate of €27 from 1 Sep , but does not spell out all inclusions in that table.
del Sole Village	Official booking engine live; exact 2 Sep pitch inventory not exposed in searchable output	€49–€55/night incl. tourist tax, depending on pitch type	2 Sep falls in the mid-season band (30 Aug–27 Sep). Current 2026 official tariff: standard €23, large €25.50, equipped standard €27.50, equipped large €29, plus €12 per adult and €1 tourist tax per adult.
Pilzone	Direct enquiry required; no reliable public live pitch calendar found	€53 standard / €58 lake-zone / €62 first-row incl. tourist tax	2 Sep is high season through 13 Sep. Official site directs enquiries to campeggiopilzone@gmail.com .
Eurovil (Predore)	Official booking/contact channels are live; exact touring-pitch inventory for 2 Sep is not publicly readable	Quote required — no reliable public 2026 touring-pitch tariff found	Open 27 Mar–27 Sep. Camper pitches have 6A electricity; a new lake-view camper area opened for 2026. On-site SUP rental and lake access in front are verified.
Eden (Pisogne)	Direct enquiry / booking required; exact 2 Sep pitch inventory not publicly exposed	roughly €46–49/night as current 2026 high-season comparison pricing for a couple; obtain an exact quote	Direct lakefront, motorhome service point, open through 30 Sep. Current directories differ slightly in how they count pitches but consistently treat it as a substantial touring campsite.
Olivella (Pilzone)	Direct contact recommended; no dependable live inventory calendar found	about €37 Zone A / €47–50 Zone B incl. tourist tax	2 Sep is peak season through 6 Sep. The campsite's own bilingual tariff has a small Italian/English inconsistency for Zone B, hence the range; Zone A is clear. Electricity, showers, hot water and private parking are included.

Campsite	Availability for arrival 2 Sep	Approx. price for 2 adults + camper on 2 Sep	What the current booking information means
Camping Iseo	Not live-confirmed; direct booking/contact required	€62 small / €70 medium / €74 lakefront / €88 XL incl. electricity and €1 pp tourist tax	Peak tariff remains in force through 14 Sep. No ACSI and no dogs.
Camping Cave	Bookable online in general; exact 2 Sep inventory not reliably exposed by the searchable booking page	€53 standard / €58 lake-zone / €62 first-row incl. tourist tax	Same high-season pitch/adult structure as Pilzone; 4A electricity is included in the pitch.
Camping Quai	Enquiry by pitch zone; no live availability calendar	€48–49 fourth row / €51–52 central / €54–55 XL / €57–58 second row / €61–62 lakefront , incl. tourist tax and €2–3/day electricity	2 Sep is mid season . Official MID rates are €20 / €23 / €26 / €29 / €33 for those pitch categories respectively, plus €12 per adult.
Riva di San Pietro	Not live-confirmed; official site offers “Book now” but no public inventory result	about €53/night for 2 people as a current third-party estimate	Treat €53 as indicative rather than an official quote. The campsite is open through 30 Sep.
Sassabanek	September offer is active; exact 2 Sep pitch availability requires a personalised quote	€44.35 standard / €47.95 large per night incl. tourist tax if staying at least 5 nights	Official offer gives 10% off the pitch component from 1 Sep–4 Oct for stays of 5+ nights. Without the offer, roughly €46.50 standard / €50.50 large incl. tourist tax.

Belvedere Clusane is deliberately not given a price/availability row as though it were a normal touring campsite. Its own site says pitches and stopover areas exist, while current PiNCAMP data says zero tourist pitches. Treat it as telephone-verification-only until that conflict is resolved.

What this changes for your shortlist

For your dates, Olivella is now the cheapest clearly published direct-lake touring option in the expanded list (about €37 for two adults in Zone A including tourist tax), though its tighter camper access means it is not automatically the best choice. Sassabanek remains unusually good value among the better-equipped sites if you stay at least five nights because its September promotion has already started. del Sole is also considerably cheaper on 2 September than it was in August because its mid-season tariff begins on 30 August, and Quai is another relatively good-value option because its mid season begins on 1 September. Eurovil and Eden materially improve geographic choice, but neither gives as clean a directly comparable official 2 September touring tariff online.

Punta d'Oro remains very attractive for atmosphere and direct lake access, but its booking rules are a major obstacle for a short stay: 2 September is still high season, with normal minimum stays of six or seven nights depending on pitch category. A shorter stay is still worth asking about because the campsite explicitly fills suitable gaps when possible.

At the time of this check, I did not find reliable public evidence that any of the twelve ranked campsites is definitely sold out specifically for 2 September. Conversely, except where a booking engine can complete a date-specific transaction, a visible “Book now” button should not be taken as proof that a suitable camper pitch remains available.

Booking vs walk-in: what to expect

There is no general northern-Italian rule that campsites keep a protected pool of pitches empty for walk-ins. Some campsites elsewhere on the northern lakes deliberately make a subset of pitches non-reservable, but those are first-come, first-served and can still all be occupied. Popular lake campsites can genuinely fill completely.

Lake Iseo does, however, have a useful last-minute pattern: minimum-stay rules can make a campsite look unavailable online even when a one- or two-night gap exists. Punta d'Oro explicitly tells one- or two-night guests to phone the day before arrival, because shorter stays may be accepted when they fill gaps in the reservation plan. Camping Quai similarly requires three nights for an advance pitch reservation (four for lakefront), but tells shorter-stay guests to call the day before to check availability.

For an unbooked arrival on 2 September, the sensible strategy is therefore:

1. Call the preferred small sites on 1 September, rather than relying only on the online booking engine.
2. Be flexible about pitch row/category. Front-row lake pitches are much more likely to be full than ordinary pitches.
3. Keep Sassabanek as the high-capacity fallback.
4. Do not assume that an unavailable online result means the campsite is physically full; equally, do not assume a walk-in pitch will be held for you.

No-reservation and emergency camper fallbacks

These are useful if the lakeside campsites cannot take you. They are not substitutes for a lakefront campsite with SUP rental, but they materially reduce the risk of arriving with nowhere legal to stay.

Fallback	What it offers	Practical use
Iseo — Viale Europa camper parking	Free, roughly 15 camper spaces , illuminated, no services ; about 500–600 m from the centre/lake and about 100 m from Conad/Lidl	Best simple Iseo-town fallback. A March 2026 report confirms overnight use; expect traffic noise because it sits near a busy road.
Baia delle Rose camper area — Costa Volpino	Proper camper area with drinking water, electricity, grey/black-water disposal, toilets, hot showers and Wi-Fi	Particularly valuable because pitches cannot be reserved : they are allocated first-come, first-served. You can call the manager the same day for real-time availability. Good upper-lake fallback near Lovere/Pisogne.
Area Sosta Camper Zone — Via Val di Gasso, Cislano	About 20 level spaces , some electricity, water and waste disposal; paid and open year-round	Good fallback for the Zone earth pyramids, but it is inland and uphill rather than lakeside. A 2026 camper report recommends approaching from the main through road rather than the narrower route up from the lake.

Campsite profiles

The profile order below is geographic/reference-oriented rather than the recommendation ranking above.

1. Camping Punta d'Oro — best small-site atmosphere, but a SUP-rental bottleneck

Location: Via Ippolito Antonioli 51, Iseo

Official website / booking: <https://www.camping-puntadoro.com/en/>

2026 season: 28 March–18 October

Scale: 64 pitches; 16 directly on the lake

Punta d'Oro is one of the strongest small-campsite choices if your priorities are quiet camping, a genuinely good waterfront pitch and easy lake access. For this particular trip, however, its SUP rental should be treated as a convenience rather than guaranteed capacity. The site slopes gently down toward a grassy beach, with steps/slipways into the water and a lake bottom that shelves gradually. The site rents exactly two SUPs and three kayaks. That makes the SUP service a real single-point-of-failure if two people are relying on boards at the same time; phone ahead and ask whether the boards can be held/reserved for the mornings you want to paddle.

The official 2026 tariff is unusually transparent and includes two people, 6A electricity, hot showers and two Wi-Fi connections. Peak-season prices range from €47.60 for a standard pitch to €71.40 for the best first/second-row lake pitches, before tourist tax. There are also two non-lake pitches suitable for XXL campers up to about 9.5 m.

2 September booking note: Exact inventory is not publicly exposed. High-season minimum stays normally apply, but the campsite explicitly says shorter stays may be accepted when they fit gaps; for 1–2 nights, call the day before. See the consolidated availability/price table above.

Availability request: <https://www.camping-puntadoro.com/en/booking-availability/>

Best for: couples, quiet stays, own-SUP or rental-SUP trips, people who want Iseo town within walking distance.

Downside: expensive for the very best waterfront pitches; only a small number of SUPs are available; no ACSI/ADAC discount.

Practical note

Punta d'Oro's rules do not allow SUPs/kayaks to be left on the communal beach, even temporarily, so plan to return the board to your pitch/storage area after paddling.

2. Camping Covelo — best atmosphere and panoramic lake views

Location: Via Covelo 18, Iseo

Official website / booking: <https://www.campingcovelo.com/>

2026 season: 30 April–26 October

Shoreline: about 300 m

Covelo is one of the most consistently praised campsites around the lake. The official site says the pitches are arranged so that every pitch has a lake view, with lakefront, second-, third- and fourth-row categories. It has a restaurant/pizzeria, bar, minimarket, free Wi-Fi and bicycle/boat rental.

For SUP rental, the current position is straightforward: the current official facilities list does not mention SUP rental. That makes Covelo excellent if you already have an inflatable SUP, but not the best choice if you need a board waiting for you on site.

Recent reviews are unusually consistent: guests praise the staff, cleanliness, restaurant and views. The repeated minor negatives are that the sanitary facilities are somewhat older and that road/rail noise can be audible depending on the pitch.

2 September booking note: Exact live inventory is not publicly readable. The published 2026 ACSI rate starts on 1 September but is limited to fourth-row pitches; premium lake rows are excluded. See the consolidated availability/price table above.

Booking / price list: <https://www.campingcovelo.com/> · <https://www.campingcovelo.com/prices-list.html>

Best for: own-SUP travellers, relaxed atmosphere, lake views from almost anywhere, longer stays.

Downside: no verified on-site SUP rental; some transport noise; current prices are less transparent online than at Punta d'Oro/Pilzone/Cave.

3. Camping del Sole Village — best full-service resort

Location: Via per Rovato 26, Iseo

Official website / booking: <https://www.campingdelsole.it/en/>

2026 season: 2 April–11 October

Scale: about 90,000 m²

Del Sole is the most resort-like option: pools, restaurants, market, entertainment, sports facilities and a beach, while still being only around a 10-minute walk from Iseo centre. Its current official site explicitly confirms SUP, canoe, pedal-boat and boat rental directly from the campsite. The number of SUPs is not published, so the guide does not assume the large fleet size claimed in some secondary commentary; contact the rental operation ahead if two boards at the same time are essential.

For camper vans, the key distinction is pitch type. Standard/lake-zone pitches are aimed at vehicles up to roughly 7 m, while some larger pitches can take campers around 7–9 m and reach about 12×7 m. More fully equipped pitches can add direct water, while facilities vary by pitch category; do not assume every pitch has a full water/drainage hookup.

There are pet-friendly zones, but the lake-zone pitches are listed as no-dog, so check the exact category when booking.

2 September booking note: The booking engine is active, but its public pages do not expose reliable date-specific inventory. By 2 September, del Sole is already in its cheaper mid-season tariff. See the consolidated availability/price table above.

Live booking engine: <https://booking.slope.it/a82e8019-8f76-4920-bcd1-9825337ed1e2>

Best for: families, people who want everything on site, SUP renters, larger camper vans that can book a suitable large pitch.

Downside: much less intimate than Covelo/Punta d'Oro; lake-zone pitch choices are more constrained for dogs and larger vehicles.

4. Camping Pilzone — best value with SUP rental effectively next door

Location: Via Cave 11, Pilzone d'Iseo

Official website / booking: <https://campingpilzone.altervista.org/>

2026 season: 1 April–30 September

High-season tariff band: 26 June–13 September

Pilzone is one of the strongest value options. In peak season 2026, the official tariff is €25 standard pitch, €30 second/third/fourth-row lake zone, or €34 first row, plus €13 per adult. Electricity and one car are included in the standard pitch tariff; tourist tax is extra.

The particularly useful feature for this guide is location: Lagovivo, an established SUP/kayak/pedal-boat operator, is at Via Cave 1, only a short distance along the same road. Regional tourism material describes Lagovivo as suitable for beginners through experienced paddlers, says staff give a safety briefing and route advice, and notes that Monte Isola can be reached from Pilzone. An official Lagovivo rental leaflet labels the crossing as roughly 45 minutes by SUP (and 30 minutes by kayak). Treat those figures only as promotional route estimates in suitable conditions, never as a target time or safety guarantee. A recent August 2026 review reports four touring SUPs being rented simultaneously without advance booking, but phone reservations are still explicitly welcomed.

2 September booking note: No reliable public live inventory is exposed; confirm directly. Published high-season pricing is summarised in the comparison table above.

Direct enquiry: campeggiopilzone@gmail.com · <https://campingpilzone.altervista.org/prezzi.html>

Best for: cost-conscious travellers without their own board; straightforward lakefront camping; reliable access to a dedicated rental operator.

Downside: simpler facilities than the resort sites; only small dogs (max one) are listed in the current tariff.

5. Camping Iseo — best quiet sandy beach; no dogs

Location: Via Ippolito Antonioli 57, Iseo

Official website / booking: <https://www.campingiseo.it/en/home-english/>

2026 season: 28 March–18 October (confirmed independently on Camping Iseo's own 2026 tariff page)

Scale: 56 pitches

Camping Iseo is a genuinely separate site from neighbouring Camping Quai. Its official site describes a fine-sand beach with a gentle gradient, two lake-access ramps/jetties and a very quiet, garden-like setting. This is arguably one of the best places for launching your own SUP, especially if you prefer sand to a wall, steps or pebble edge.

Peak 2026 pricing is €28 small pitch, €36 medium, €40 lakefront, €54 XL, plus €14.50 per adult and €3 electricity. A lakefront pitch for two adults therefore comes to roughly €72/night before tourist tax.

Rules are stricter than elsewhere: dogs are not allowed, ACSI is not accepted, and the site says tents/closed awnings/grass carpets are not accepted.

2 September booking note: Live inventory is not publicly exposed; confirm directly. The campsite remains in its top tariff period on 2 September. See the consolidated availability/price table above.

Official site: <https://www.campingiseo.it/en/home-english/>

Best for: quiet couples, own-SUP users, sandy/shallow access, walking into Iseo.

Downside: no dogs, strict camping rules, relatively high peak-season total price.

6. Camping Cave — best pet-friendly Pilzone alternative

Location: Via Cave 13, Pilzone d'Iseo (municipality of Iseo, BS)

Official website / booking: <https://www.campingcave.it/en/>

2026 season: 30 April–4 October

Cave has a grassy lakeside setting, shade and a more traditional campsite feel. Its standard pitch is about 7.0 × 6.5 m, includes 4A electricity, and recent booking-site reviews rate the scenery, staff and restaurant highly.

Peak 2026 prices mirror Pilzone closely: €25 standard, €30 lake zone, €34 first row, plus €13 per adult. For two adults, a first-row pitch is roughly €60 before tourist tax. Pets are allowed.

Lagovivo at Via Cave 1 is nearby for SUP rental. A practical caution from recent camper reviews is that access can feel narrow and pitches are not particularly large, so this is less attractive for very large motorhomes.

2 September booking note: No dependable public date-specific pitch inventory is exposed; check the booking channel or contact the site directly. Published pricing is in the comparison table above.

Official tariff: <https://www.campingcave.it/listino-prezzi/>

Best for: pets, shade, quieter/simple camping, nearby SUP rental.

Downside: 4A electrical supply, modest pitch size, tighter access than some Iseo-town sites.

7. Camping Quai — simple, family-run and directly lakeside

Location: Via Ippolito Antonioli 73, Iseo

Official website / booking: <https://campingquai.it/>

2026 season: 24 April–11 October

Quai is a separate, family-run lakeside campsite with transparent pricing. For 2 September, its MID-season rates are €33 lakefront, €29 second row, €26 XL, €23 central and €20 fourth row, plus €12 per adult, €1 tourist tax per adult and roughly €2–3/day for electricity. The higher July–August MAX rates are €36 / €32 / €29 / €26 / €22 respectively.

Recent camper reviews praise the friendliness, sanitary facilities, restaurant and proximity to Iseo. One useful caveat is that several reviewers describe the actual beach area as limited; the lakefront pitches get the best water views.

Crucially for this trip, Quai does have its own SUP/kayak rental. The current official tariff is €10 for 1 hour, €18 for 2 hours, €25 for 3 hours, €32 for 4 hours or €37 for a full day for a SUP/single kayak. The campsite recommends reserving the equipment at least one day in advance at reception.

2 September booking note: Exact availability requires a direct request. Advance bookings normally require three nights (four for lakefront); for shorter stays the campsite explicitly recommends calling the day before to ask about gaps. See the consolidated price table above.

Booking / price list: <https://campingquai.it/en/price-list/> · info@campingquai.it · +39 030 9821610

Best for: simple lakeside camping near town, people who like small family-run sites, and travellers who want on-site SUP rental with published prices and advance-reservation guidance.

Downside: limited beach compared with Camping Iseo/Punta d'Oro; published SUP fleet size is unknown.

8. Riva di San Pietro — best Marone / northern-east-shore base

Location: Via Battista Cristini 5, Marone

Official website / booking: <https://www.rivasanpietro.it/>

2026 season: 9 May–30 September

Scale: 110 pitches

Riva di San Pietro sits directly on the lake and has electricity on all pitches, two pools, restaurant/bar, bicycle rental and pedal-/motor-boat rental. It is a good base if you want to spend more time in the northern half of the lake rather than around Iseo town.

For SUP, Surface SUP Academy is at Lido Mad Hops, Via Battista Cristini 13, only a few doors from the campsite at number 5. Its 2026 rental page offers All-Round and faster Superior/Race boards; an All-Round board is €12.50/1h, €22/2h, €33/3h or €65/day, plus a €3.50 seasonal Guest membership. This is one of the clearest dedicated-rental setups in the guide.

The campsite itself gives an important access instruction for vehicles: do not take the Zone/Marone exit from the main road; use the Vello exit instead.

2 September booking note: Exact pitch inventory is not publicly exposed, and I could not verify a clean official 2026 touring-pitch tariff; obtain a direct quote. The third-party budgeting estimate is retained only in the consolidated comparison table above.

Official site: https://www.rivasanpietro.it/?lang=en&page_id=59

Best for: Marone, north-lake exploration, SUP tuition, families wanting a pool.

Downside: no verified on-site SUP rental; shorter season than the Iseo campsites.

9. Sassabanek — best large leisure complex and ACSI option

Location: Via Colombera 2, Iseo

Official website / booking: <https://www.sassabanek.com/en/>

2026 season: 1 April–4 October

Sassabanek is a large complex rather than an intimate waterside campground. It combines Caravan Camping with the Sporting Lido, pools, sports facilities, restaurants and a marina. For SUP users, the key point is that its 2026 material explicitly advertises SUP and kayak rental through Sporting Lido/ATLS. The Sporting Lido is scheduled to remain open through 6 September 2026, so it is operational for a 2 September arrival.

For 2 September, keep three separate price mechanisms distinct:

- Regular tariff: 23 August–20 September is the normal middle band: €21.50 standard pitch / €25.50 large pitch + €11.50 per adult, before tourist tax. €21.50 is a regular tariff, not itself a special offer.
- September promotion: from 1 September, stays of 5+ nights receive 10% off the pitch component.
- ACSI: the separate ACSI offer starts 6 September and is advertised from €25/day per qualifying pitch. It does not help for the first nights of a 2 September arrival unless Sassabanek confirms that it can be applied part-way through the stay.

2 September booking note: Sassabanek is actively marketing September stays, but that does not prove a pitch is free on 2 September. Its separate September promotion starts on 1 September; ACSI does not begin until 6 September. See the consolidated comparison table above.

September offer: <https://www.sassabanek.com/it/fine-estate-lago-iseo>

Best for: facilities, families, low-season ACSI users, on-site water-sports access.

Downside: less of the small, quiet “van parked almost in the lake” atmosphere that Covelo/Punta d’Oro/Pilzone provide.

10. Camping Eurovil — strong Predore all-rounder with on-site SUP rental

Location: Via San Giorgio 2, Predore

Official website / booking: <https://campingeurovil.it/en/>

2026 season: 27 March–27 September

Eurovil is one of the strongest alternatives outside the Iseo/Pilzone cluster. Its current official campsite page says it has pitches of different sizes suitable for campers and minivans, all with 6A electricity, and that a new camper area with lake view opened for the 2026 season. The campsite describes itself as only a few metres from Lake Iseo; its services page is even more useful for this trip because it explicitly lists SUP rental and lake access directly in front of the campsite. The swimming pools are scheduled to remain open until 13 September 2026, so they are operating for a 2 September arrival.

The nuance is that this is not quite the same proposition as a Punta d’Oro/Covelo first-row pitch physically touching the water. Eurovil’s own wording is “a few metres from the lake” and “lake access in front”; the guide therefore avoids overstating every pitch as literal lakefront.

Rental resilience is nevertheless unusually good. In addition to Eurovil’s own SUP service, Whassup Rental operates in Predore at Via Roma 3 with online reservations, hourly/full-day rentals and guided/sunset outings. Its current tariff is €15/1h, €20/1.5h, €25/2h, €40/half-day or €50/full day, including board, paddle, leash, dry bag and life jacket. That gives Predore a useful second rental channel if the campsite’s own boards are busy.

2 September booking note: the campsite is open and its booking system is active, but I could not obtain a reliable public touring-pitch tariff or date-specific camper inventory for 2 September. Contact it directly rather than reading mobile-home availability as pitch availability.

Best for: renters who want redundancy, medium campers, facilities/pool, a quieter southwestern base near Sarnico/Predore.

Downside: public touring-pitch pricing is less transparent than Pilzone/Olivella; exact SUP fleet size and equipment-reservation rules are not published.

11. Camping Eden — strong north-lake option in Pisogne

Location: Via Piangrande 3/A, Pisogne

Official website: <https://campingedenpisogne.com/>

2026 season: 1 April–30 September

Camping Eden is directly on the northern end of Lake Iseo, at the foot of Valle Camonica. Italia.it describes a 15,000 m² campsite with differently sized pitches, about 200 m from the railway station, 300 m from Pisogne's central square and 400 m from a large shopping centre. Camping.info currently lists 99 total pitches, while PiNCAMP confirms 2–6A hook-ups and a full motorhome service setup for wastewater, cassette toilet and fresh-water needs.

The SUP setup is particularly strong for travellers without their own boards. Surface SUP Academy operates a second base at X Beach, Via Piangrande, Pisogne, in addition to its Marone base, and its 2026 rental page offers All-Round, Superior and Race boards. All-Round pricing is €12.50/1h, €22/2h, €33/3h, €40/4h or €65/day, plus the €3.50 2026 Guest membership. That puts a dedicated SUP operator on the same lakeside Via Piangrande strip as the campsite.

Current camper reviews are quite consistent about the trade-off: the location, lake access, staff and walkability into Pisogne are praised, but several 2026 reviews say pitches can be relatively small and the sanitary facilities are old/due for renovation, although generally clean. For a medium rental camper this is still a credible fit; request a pitch that comfortably takes your exact dimensions.

2 September booking note: exact live inventory was not publicly exposed in the sources checked. Current 2026 comparison pricing is roughly €46–49/night for a couple in high season, but obtain an exact quote including electricity/tax for your camper.

Best for: a northern-lake base, dedicated SUP rental nearby, walking into a real town, train access, full camper-service capability.

Downside: older/smaller sanitary infrastructure and some modest pitch sizes; less polished than the resort sites.

12. Camping Olivella — inexpensive Pilzone-cluster fallback, with an access caveat

Location: Via Cave 7, Pilzone d'Iseo

Official website / prices: <https://www.campingolivella.it/> · <https://campingolivella.it/prezzi-pricing.html>

2026 season: 20 March–25 October

Olivella sits directly on the lake in the same Via Cave cluster as Lagovivo, Camping Pilzone and Camping Cave. Its official site describes large shaded pitches for caravans and campers, shallow lake water, wastewater disposal and a boat ramp. It also explicitly states that it has an arrangement with Lago Vivo Green Rental “a due passi dal campeggio” — effectively a short walk away. The page specifically mentions kayaks/electric boats, while Lagovivo's own current operation separately confirms SUP rental, so the SUP advantage is the same nearby dedicated operator used by Pilzone/Cave rather than a campsite-owned fleet.

The price is unusually attractive for 2 September. The official 2026 table places 2 September in peak season. Zone A is clear at €17 for the pitch plus €9 per adult, with €1 tourist tax per adult: about €37/night for two adults. The site's Italian and English columns conflict slightly for Zone B (adult/pitch figures differ by €1), so the honest comparison is about €47–50/night including tourist tax rather than pretending there is one exact number. Electricity, showers, hot water and private parking are included in the pitch tariff.

There is one material downside for a rental camper: a current June/July 2026 camper review specifically describes tight access and cramped manoeuvring, especially for larger motorhomes; another current review describes the site as quiet, shaded and clean. For a medium camper, ask for the exact access route and pitch dimensions before booking.

Best for: low price, direct lake access, Lagovivo proximity, people happy with a small traditional campsite.

Downside: access/manoeuvring can be awkward; facilities/reviews are more mixed than Pilzone; direct SUP rental is nearby rather than owned by Olivella.

13. Belvedere Clusane — attractive location, but verify transient touring pitches first

Location: Via Risorgimento 132–134, Clusane d'Iseo

Official website: <https://www.belvedereclusane.it/>

Belvedere is worth retaining in the guide because its own current site says it is directly on Lake Iseo and offers pitches and stopover areas, plus a 25 m lakeside pool, bar and restaurant/pizzeria. That makes the location worth retaining as a conditional option.

Current sources conflict on Belvedere's transient touring capacity. PiNCAMP currently reports 0 tourist pitches and no complete motorhome service station, while Belvedere's own site advertises "piazzole ed aree di sosta". This may reflect permanent/seasonal-pitch classification or stale third-party data, so transient camper availability should be confirmed directly before relying on the site.

The SUP case is weaker than at the ranked rental-focused sites. Direct shoreline access would be useful if you already had a board, but I found no verified on-site SUP rental at Belvedere. Whassup operates in Predore on the southwestern shore, but this should be treated as a separate rental trip rather than assumed to be a two-minute walk from the campsite.

For this trip: phone +39 030 9898030 and ask specifically whether they accept a transient medium camper for your dates, what pitch/service facilities are included, and whether a nearby board rental can be recommended. Until they answer yes, do not use Belvedere as a primary fallback.

Because you are not bringing boards, this is more useful than a simple yes/no rental column. “Fleet” means what can actually be verified publicly; an unknown count should not be interpreted as a large supply.

Base / campsite	SUP access	Publicly known fleet	Advance booking evidence	Reliability for this trip
Camping Pilzone / Cave / Olivella → Lagovivo	Dedicated rental at Via Cave 1	Official count not published; Aug 2026 reviewer rented 4 touring SUPs at once and reported good quantity/range	Phone reservations appreciated	Very good ; Olivella has a separate camper-access caveat
Camping Eurovil	On-site SUP rental + Whassup elsewhere in Predore as a second rental channel	Campsite fleet count not published; Whassup fleet count also not published	Whassup offers on-line/advance booking; campsite rule not published	Very good because there are two independent rental options in Predore
Camping Eden → Surface SUP Academy / X Beach + RentalKles	Dedicated Surface base on Via Piangrande plus a second Pisogne SUP rental business at RentalKles	Surface has multiple board categories; RentalKles publishes SUP rental from €5/hour	Both operators publish contact/booking channels	Excellent redundancy for a northern base
Camping del Sole	Directly on-site	Count not published	Contact on-site rental ahead; no SUP-specific reservation rule published	Good–very good
Camping Quai	Directly on-site	Count not published	Reserve at least 1 day ahead at reception	Very good
Sassabanek / Sporting Lido	Directly within complex	Count not published	No clear reservation rule found	Good , and Lido open through 6 Sep
Punta d’Oro	Directly on-site	2 SUPs + 3 kayaks	No formal SUP reservation policy found; call ahead	Convenient but fragile
Riva di San Pietro → Surface SUP Academy	A few doors away in Marone	Multiple board categories; count not published	Contact available; guided activities are reservation-based	Very good
Covelo	No verified on-site SUP	Il Lido di Iseo rents SUPs to non-lido guests by reservation; otherwise use Pilzone operators	Il Lido requires reservation/payment but no lido admission	Moderate–good , but involves leaving the campsite
Camping Iseo	No verified on-site SUP	Il Lido di Iseo is a genuine public rental fallback and explicitly accepts SUP renters who are not lido guests	Reservation required	Good fallback , though not on-site
Belvedere Clusane	No verified on-site SUP	Separate rental trip required; do not assume Whassup is walkable	—	Low–moderate , and transient pitch status must first be confirmed

Published rental prices worth knowing

- Camping Quai: SUP/single kayak €10/1h · €18/2h · €25/3h · €32/4h · €37/day. Reserve at least one day ahead at reception.
- Lagovivo: rentals from €12; phone reservations are welcomed; buoyancy aid, dry bag and phone case are supplied, and the operator advertises an emergency boat.

- Surface SUP Academy (Marone + X Beach Pisogne): All-Round SUP €12.50/1h · €22/2h · €33/3h · €40/4h · €65/day, plus €3.50 Guest membership for the 2026 season.
- Rentalkles, Pisogne: SUP €5/1h · €15/half-day · €20/day, giving Pisogne a second independent rental option.
- Canottieri Sebino, Lovere: SUP €12/1h · €20/2h · €6 per additional half-hour; buoyancy aid included.
- Il Lido di Iseo: SUP/canoe rental is available by reservation even to people who do not buy lido admission; ask for the current hourly rate.
- Whassup Rental, Predore: €15/1h · €20/1.5h · €25/2h · €40/half-day · €50/full day; board, paddle, leash, waterproof bag and life jacket included.
- Punta d'Oro / del Sole / Sassabanek: rental is verified, but a current public SUP price/fleet count was not found; ask before relying on it.

Monte Isola: possible, but not a casual default crossing

Monte Isola is about 4.5 km². It is the largest lake island in Italy and is commonly described as the largest in Southern/Central Europe, but it is not the largest inhabited lake island in Europe: for example, inhabited Visingsö in Sweden's Lake Vättern is about 25 km². Some Lake Iseo tourism material still uses the broader "largest inhabited in Europe" claim; this guide does not.

Lagovivo and the Lombardy tourism portal do advertise paddling from Pilzone toward Monte Isola, and Lagovivo says it advises customers on routes according to ability and provides safety equipment. That makes the crossing a legitimate operator-advised option in suitable conditions, not a casual default trip.

The main safety issue is ferry traffic. Monte Isola has frequent scheduled ferry traffic. The official tourism portal describes the Sulzano–Peschiera Maraglio and Sale Marasino–Carzano services as running roughly every 15–20 minutes, and the lake's nautical map shows dense navigation around the island. A rented SUP crossing should therefore be treated as an operator-advised open-water outing, not something to improvise merely because the island looks close.

For this trip:

- Do not casually launch across the Sulzano–Peschiera ferry corridor. If you want to cross, ask the rental operator which route is appropriate that morning and follow its briefing.
- Use the supplied buoyancy aid, a leash where appropriate, waterproof phone storage, and stay well clear of ferry approaches and docks.
- If you are inexperienced, conditions are marginal, or the operator advises against the crossing, choose a shoreline paddle or a guided SUP outing instead.
- No reliable source checked establishes unusually strong channel currents as a general Lake Iseo rule, and no source checked says SUP crossings to Monte Isola are generally prohibited.
- Visit Monte Isola itself by ferry regardless; paddling and sightseeing on the island are separate activities.

Wind pattern: morning bias, not a rigid clock rule

Official Lake Iseo material describes two characteristic thermal winds: the Vèt, primarily a night/early-morning northerly, and the Ora, a southerly that develops from late morning into the afternoon/evening. A local Lake Iseo source puts the Ora at roughly 11:00 onward, but the exact onset varies with sunshine, season and weather.

So the practical advice is:

- Prefer morning for recreational flat-water SUP and long outings.
- Do not treat 08:00–11:00 as "non-negotiably flat": the Vèt can still be present in the morning, and weather systems can override the thermal pattern.
- Re-check wind and webcams immediately before launching, especially for any crossing.
- The southern Iseo shore is described by Camping del Sole as less exposed to strong winds than the upper lake, which is another reason Iseo/Pilzone work well for casual SUP.

Useful live-weather cross-check: <https://windsurflakeiseo.it/lake/lago-iseo/>

Baia del Bogn

The Baia del Bogn near Riva di Solto is one of the most spectacular paddling areas, with limestone cliffs dropping directly into the water. It makes more sense to reach the area via a suitable launch and paddle locally than to take a camper along the narrow scenic Riva di Solto–Lovere shore road. A guided SUP/canoe operator such as SportAction is a sensible way to explore the west shore without combining paddling with the most awkward camper route.

Camper-road advice

A 2024 CamperOnLine discussion specifically identifies Riva di Solto → Lovere on the old scenic west-bank road as the problematic stretch for a camper. Experienced local contributors emphasise that width can matter more than length and describe blind bends, a rock wall that overhangs toward the carriageway, short tunnels/rock arches and points where even cars may need to alternate.

For a rented camper, that means the risk is not merely “a narrow road”: a high or wide body can conflict with rock overhangs and limited-clearance arches. The practical implication for a high-sided rental camper is straightforward:

Do not deliberately route a medium rental camper along the old Riva di Solto–Lovere waterfront road. Use the easier through route and visit Bogn/Riva separately by bike, small vehicle or from the water. Check the rental vehicle’s actual width and height, not just its length.

For Riva di San Pietro in Marone, follow the campsite’s own instruction to approach via the Vello exit rather than the Zone/Marone exit.

Camper parking for Torbiere del Sebino and Franciacorta

The reserve’s official directions say the Provaglio entrance at the Monastery of San Pietro in Lamosa has two ample car parks and a separate coach area; camper-specific reports also describe motorhomes parking at the monastery and behind the Iseo football field. The barrier mentioned by the reserve is at the pedestrian reserve entrance, after parking, not evidence of a motorhome-height barrier to the car park.

Practical options:

- Torbiere – Provaglio entrance: park near Monastero San Pietro in Lamosa and walk into the reserve.
- Torbiere – Iseo entrance: parking by/behind the football field is also used by campers; the reserve entrance is then reached on foot.
- Franciacorta wineries: do not assume a winery’s “car parking” means a medium camper will fit. Call ahead for individual winery visits. If you want a guaranteed camper-friendly wine stop, Agriturismo Al Rocol is an official local option with eight equipped motorhome pitches (electricity, fresh water and wastewater disposal).

Cycling and non-SUP days

A complete circuit of Lake Iseo is roughly 60–65 km, but it should not be presented as one easy continuous cycleway. Official tourism material rates a 60 km lake circuit with around 800 m of climbing as medium/high difficulty, while other tourism pages quote about 65 km for the shore loop. Route choice matters.

For the Marone–Pisogne side, distinguish the through road from the dedicated Vello–Toline cycle/pedestrian route: the official cycle/pedestrian path runs for about 5 km one way on the old lakeside road, below the current coast road, and passes through its own tunnels away from motor traffic. It is flat and explicitly promoted for all types of bicycle.

The sensible distinction is therefore:

- Vello–Toline: excellent casual outing; flat, scenic, traffic-free old road with tunnels.
- Full lake circuit: a longer mixed-road ride, not recommended as a casual “just follow the shore” excursion unless you are comfortable planning around ordinary traffic and elevation.
- Franciacorta: good alternative for gentler cycling through vineyards, using mapped routes rather than improvising down narrow winery lanes.

Other excellent non-paddling days include:

- Monte Isola by ferry, then walk the ~9 km island circuit. Note that current Monte Isola rules restrict bicycle landing/transit on weekends, pre-holiday days and holidays from March through September (and every day in August); 2 September 2026 is a weekday, but re-check notices before taking bikes.
 - Torbiere del Sebino nature reserve near the south end of the lake — pedestrian only inside the reserve.
 - Franciacorta wineries and villages; pre-book tastings and confirm camper parking.
 - Zone earth pyramids above Marone.
 - Lovere and the upper lake, reached via the easier camper route rather than the narrow old shore road.

Water quality

The lake is actively monitored during the bathing season. ATS Brescia states that Lake Iseo bathing-water information is updated through the national Portale Acque, and 2026 reporting has shown the monitored Iseo/Marone bathing areas open for swimming at the latest published checks. Still check the current official status after heavy rain or if you see obvious algal blooms or unusual turbidity.

Final ranking by traveller type

For your actual trip — no board, 2 September, medium rental camper:

1. Pilzone + Lagovivo
2. Eurovil — on-site SUP + Whassup fallback in Predore; new 2026 lake-view camper area
3. Del Sole
4. Quai
5. Eden Pisogne + Surface/X Beach
6. Sassabanek
7. Punta d'Oro
8. Riva di San Pietro + Surface
9. Olivella + Lagovivo — inexpensive, but confirm camper access/pitch dimensions
10. Cave
11. Covelo
12. Camping Iseo

Belvedere Clusane: unranked conditional fallback until transient touring-pitch availability is confirmed directly.

If you owned a SUP and wanted the nicest overall camping experience:

1. Covelo
2. Punta d'Oro
3. Camping Iseo

If SUP rental reliability matters most:

1. Pilzone/Cave/Olivella + Lagovivo — dedicated rental, phone reservations welcomed, multiple boards evidenced; campsite access differs
2. Eurovil + Whassup Predore — verified on-site rental plus a second dedicated rental operator in the same town
3. Quai — on-site, published tariff, advance reservation explicitly recommended
4. Eden Pisogne + Surface/X Beach — dedicated SUP specialist on the same lakeside strip with several board categories
5. Riva di San Pietro + Surface — dedicated SUP specialist with several board categories
6. Del Sole — on-site and convenient, but fleet count unpublished
7. Sassabanek — on-site through Sporting Lido, operational through 6 Sep for this trip
8. Punta d'Oro — on-site but only two boards

If price matters most on 2 September:

1. Olivella Zone A (~€37 for two adults incl. tourist tax) — cheapest published direct-lake option, subject to camper-access fit
2. Sassabanek if staying 5+ nights and using the September offer
3. Del Sole / Quai (already in shoulder-season bands)
4. Eden (current directory comparison roughly mid-to-high €40s for a couple; confirm exact quote)
5. Pilzone / Cave
6. Covelo if you already have a valid ACSI card and accept fourth row
7. Eurovil — cannot be fairly placed on price until a touring-pitch quote is obtained

If you have a large motorhome:

1. Del Sole — book one of the large 7–9 m-capable pitches
2. Punta d'Oro — specifically ask for one of the XXL-capable pitches
3. Covelo — confirm exact pitch dimensions before booking

Avoid building your route around the old Riva di Solto–Lovere waterfront road.

ACSI: what the discount actually means

CampingCard ACSI can be used in digital or physical form; present a valid card at check-in.

The generic 2026 ACSI rate includes two adults, a camper with awning, electricity up to 6A/4 kWh per day, showers and a standard or qualifying “luxury” pitch. But each campsite controls its acceptance dates and may exclude premium categories. That is exactly what matters here:

- Covelo: the published 2026 ACSI rate starts 1 September, but the price sheet limits it to fourth-row pitches; lakefront/second/third row are excluded.
- Sassabanek: ACSI starts 6 September, so it does not help on your 2 September arrival. Use the separate September promotion instead.

Do not buy an ACSI card solely on the assumption that it discounts a first-row lakefront pitch.

Booking questions worth asking every campsite

Before paying a deposit, ask for:

1. Exact pitch number and dimensions, not just category.
 2. Whether the pitch is first-row lakefront or merely “lake zone/view.”
 3. Whether you can carry/launch your own SUP directly from the campsite and where it may be stored.
 4. If renting, whether two SUPs can be reserved for the same time slot. This is especially important at Punta d’Oro (only two boards); Quai explicitly recommends booking equipment one day ahead; Lagovivo welcomes phone reservations.
 5. Electricity amperage (4A vs 6A matters with camper appliances).
 6. Your rental camper’s exact length, width and height and whether the chosen pitch/arrival route accepts all three. Width/height matter on Lake Iseo roads, not just length.
 7. Whether the quoted rate includes people, electricity, car, booking fee and tourist tax.

Deliberate exclusions and ambiguous listings

A regional campsite directory can be misleading because it may mix genuinely lakefront touring sites with inland campsites, seasonal sites or entries whose current operating model is unclear. The following are not part of the main ranked shortlist:

- Camping Trenta Passi, Riva di Solto: geographically it should qualify, but current information conflicts sharply. Camping.info contains a June 2026 guest report saying the former green campsite had effectively become a gravel parking area and that ordinary camping was no longer possible, while current regional/camper directories still list it as an operating campsite with touring pitches. Until the operator confirms the present setup directly, do not rely on it as a normal fallback. Its west-shore access is also less attractive for a medium rental camper.
- La Tartufaia, Ranzanico: sometimes grouped into broader “Lake Iseo” searches, but it is on Lake Endine, not Lake Iseo.
- Val Tress / Cislano and other Zone accommodation: useful for hiking/Zone but inland rather than lakefront. The separate Area Sosta Camper Zone is retained above specifically as a non-lakefront fallback.
- Agricamping La Tesa: useful Franciacorta-area camping, but not a direct-lake camper/SUP base.
- Belvedere Clusane: retained separately as a conditional option because its own site and PiNCAMP currently conflict about transient tourist pitches.

Camping Olivella qualifies for this guide. Its own current site and the official Visit Lake Iseo portal both explicitly describe it as directly on the lake / fronte lago, with camper pitches and lake access.
